Mediators Take Ground That the U. S. Should Have Interfered

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Information reaching Washington late today that the American schooner Sunshine, from Galveston, had landed ammunition at Tampico for the Mexican Constitutionalists, without interference on the part of the United States or the Huerta government, was received in official quarters here without comment.

The state department and navy department officials declined to verify the report, but from other sources it was learned that the presence of the Sunshine at Tampico with arms aboard, was known to the Huerta government for several days.

In view of the fact that there had been considerable apprehension regarding the attitude the United States might take toward the landing of ammunition at this Mexican port, the actual delivery of munitions of war for the enemies of the Huerta government without interference was regarded with significance.

Tampico Open Port

With the Cuban steamer Antilla en route from New York to Tampico with arms consigned to Carranza's forces, there has been much speculation as to what the United States would do in case the Huerta government should attempt to blockade the port. Even indication tonight, however, was that the United States would maintain its previously announced position that Tampico was an open port.

At 10:30 A. M. today, the United States navy, which had been ordered to move toward Tampico, Admiral Badger was instructed to report at once to Washington. The Mexican vessels have since been kept under close surveillance.

Mediators Disapprove

The movements of arms pending results of mediation and the proposals of the Constitutionalists to participate in the peace negotiations have been followed by rumors of disapproval on the part of the South American envoys engaged in the effort to compromise the Mexican situation. The fact there have been widespread reports that the mediators had protested against the United States permitting the delivery of ammunition to the Constitutionalists at Tampico.

Secretary Bryan tonight declared, however, that the state department had received no protest from the mediators, and he also denied reports that Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador, who represents the interests of Huerta in the United States, had protested against the delivery of munitions of war to the Constitutionalists.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A defense of the legislative policy of the Democratic party since it assumed control of the national administration and a bitter denunciation of "reactionary howlers" and those who speak of business depression and lay it at Democracy's door, marked a speech in the senate today by Senator Reed of Missouri.

"The Democratic party seems to me to be in this situation at the present time," Senator Reed said. "It passes a bill restoring confidence to the financial situation and the stock market responds and shows improvement, the gentleman of the other side of the aisle rises up and rolls their eyes and froth at the mouth in a fine frenzy and declare that it has surrendered itself to the great financial interests. But if a trust or other combination sets up a wall we are immediately denounced as enemies of all legitimate business. Of course, if it is taken as the voice of honest business, it will frighten some people; it will tend to retard progress and make the timorous shiver and begin to hoard dollars; and if enough of it is done it may be the people will be deceived into believing it."

Answers Criticism

The senator made a vigorous attack upon the General Motors company and one of its subsidiaries whose president recently criticized congress in a letter appearing in the Congressional Record. In this letter, congress was charged with being responsible for business depression and advised to quit work and go home. Senator Reed declared that the Motors company was "a criminal trust" and an unlawful combination.

"I am publicly calling the attention of the attorney general to this company," the senator said, "and asking him to investigate and take the necessary steps for its dissolution."

He produced financial statements showing the company had net earnings of several million dollars each year for several years past, and commented on the fact that, with an income of that kind, it was not showing any man should criticize congress for the lack of business.

Business Better, He Says

Senator Reed read many newspaper interviews and quoted stock market quotations to show that the business, instead of declining, is increasing, and that stocks are higher and sales greater than a year ago.

Instead of sitting here and proclaiming disaster, we ought to stand up and endeavor to produce a feeling of just confidence," he asserted.

Sensors Smith and Townsend of Michigan, Republicans, answered Senator Reed. Senator Townsend said that he did not intend to defend the General Motors company, and that if it was a trust or a combination in restraint of trade it should be prosecuted. He did take issue with the Missouri senator, however, on the question of the need for further legislation by congress. He read a letter from a Massachusetts business man to Senator Lodge, who was not present, which said: "Business is sick and many cases of it are dying outright because of just one thing—too much medicine and not enough rest."

CROWDS PACK PRINCESS TO SEE PICTURES OF SPRINGS AUTOISTS WHO TOURED TEXAS

Films and Stereopticon Views Show Entire Journey; Special Reels of Region

The people of the Pike's Peak region yesterday learned something of the interesting incidents of the Colorado-to-Gulf automobile sociability run, the troubles of the party as well as the enjoyable features of the three weeks' trip made to advertise the Pike's Peak region and to promote closer relations between the people of the southwest and those of this state. The pictures were shown at the Prince's and the views were one of the most interesting presented here.

One hundred slides showing the features of the trip and illustrating various points along the route were followed by a thousand feet of motion pictures. This collection gave an vivid picture of the tour, showing graphically all of the incidents, besides presenting a idea of the interesting places visited en route. Both slides and motion pictures were excellent photographic quality. The slides were from a series of 100, made by the official tour photographer, B. Merrick, as were also the motion pictures. The views of the home-land, made by Romaine Fielding, and also those made by his request at Silverton and Houston, were excellent. Besides these, two reels of local scenic pictures, made at various (places) in the park, but not having the local character, added much to the interest of the show. Included in these were "Rocky Mountains in Winter," "Olympus of Colorado in Winter," "Colorado brings Fortieth Birthday," "Three of the cars a unique experience."

C. H. AUSTIN SELLS HALF INTEREST IN CAVE OF THE WINDS

Famous Attraction Has Long Been One of Region's Show Places

Charles H. Austin of Manitou yesterday virtually closed a deal whereby his one-half interest in the Cave of the Winds and surrounding property is transferred to J. F. Campbell, secretary, and A. M. Wilson, vice president, of the Pike's Peak and Manitou and Oliver H. Shoup of the Reed-Shoup-Hopkins group of capitalists. The consideration was not made public, but the sale probably involved a large sum, as the cave earns a net profit of approximately $100,000 annually.

Besides the cave, the property immediately surrounding it and its scenic approach, Williams canyon, site included in the transaction. Extensive improvement probably will be made within the near future, although the present owners of the attraction have not announced any plans.

The improvement plans, it is said, include the construction of a fine drive from Manitou through Williams canyon to the cave. The installation of an elevator from the floor of the canyon up the face of the cliff to the cave also has been discussed but nothing definite decided. Engineers have declared the plan entirely feasible. It is understood.

The Cave of the Winds is one of the best-known attractions in the Pike's Peak region. Because of its novelty and of the unsurpassed scenery along its approach, it is visited by almost every tourist who comes to Colorado Springs. Since the installation of an electric lighting system, it has become more popular and now is making a handsome profit annually.

O. P. Eimer and George Salder retain their one-half interest in the attraction.

National Legislation to Deal With Problem of Unemployed Urged

WASHINGTON, June 5.—National legislation to deal with the problem of unemployed labor was urged before the house labor committee today by a delegation of sociological workers. The delegation supported the Murdock bill for a national employment agency and the MacDonald bill to create employment agencies at postoffices throughout the country. It is expected the committee will report some legislation along this line at this session and will press it in the house next winter.

Dr. John B. Andrews of the American Association for Labor Legislation, urged early action on the pending bills. He said that the federal government was the only agency which could deal with the problem in a broad, national way. Bringing the matter of unemployed workers to the front of public attention, he said, was the first step in dealing with the problem. He urged the committee to report some legislation along this line at this session and will press it in the house next winter.

FRANCE OPENS ARMS TO COL. ROOSEVELT 10,000 WESTINGHOUSE EMPLOYEES ON STRIKE

'Never Felt Better in My Life,' Says Colonel; Has Thrown His Cane Away

CHERBOURG, France, June 5.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt arrived here tonight on board the steamer Olympia on his way to Spain to attend the wedding of his son, Kermit, to Miss Belle Wyatt Willard. Colonel Roosevelt was officially welcomed on behalf of the French government.

The private car of President Poincaré was sent to Cherbourg for the use of the former American executive, and M. Niclaus, assistant prefect of Cherbourg, was delegated to welcome him.

Colonel Roosevelt declared the voyage had greatly benefited him, and that he never felt better in his life. The cane he carried on board the Olympia at New York had been discarded when he came ashore. He said he had gained in weight since he left the United States, and hoped that after his European trip he would be entirely recovered from the illness contracted in the jungles of South America.

Colonel Roosevelt declined to comment of the criticisms published concerning his reported "discovery" in South America. He had nothing to say regarding the political situation in the United States. He expressed pleasure at the courtesies shown him by President Poincaré, and said he expected to pay his respects to the president tomorrow.

Colonel Roosevelt will leave Sunday for Madrid. He left here tonight at midnight for Paris, where he has made arrangements to stop at a hotel until his departure for Spain.

PROF. TAFT PRESIDES OVER NEW YORK PEACE MEETING

NEW YORK, June 5.—Former President William H. Taft presided today at a meeting called by the New York Peace society to organize a permanent body which will try to end dissensions between nations over the treatment of aliens. It was decided to form an organization, national in its scope, which will advocate legislation giving the federal government greater power to regulate the status of aliens in their relation to the governments of the states where they reside.

NEW YORK, June 5.—A sudden fall of Boulder creek after a week of floods has deprived the city of pressure needed for adequate fire protection. No more water can be obtained until a deep trench has been dug to change the channel of the creek. The storage reservoir now contains but six feet of water. Rucker brigades are carrying water from nearby springs for domestic use. The mayor has ordered all lawn irrigation stopped until the flood damage has been repaired.

WOMEN KEEP UP ARSON CAMPAIGN NONMILITANTS ALSO ARE BECOMING ACTIVE

Throw Strength to Labor Party; Arguing Center of Attack

LONDON, June 5.—The campaign of arson and attempts at destruction of property by means of bombs was continued today by the militant suffragettes.

Brewer's church, a historic edifice near Derby, was destroyed in the early morning and during the day an amateurish bomb was found in Duddhope castle, near Dundee. The fuse of the bomb had been extinguished by the wind.

Sylvia Pankhurst, borne to the platform on an invalid chair, made another appearance tonight at a suffrage meeting in Cannington and repeated her threat that she would lie on the steps of the house of commons without food of water until Premier Asquith consented to receive a deputation of her followers.

While the militant suffragettes are pursuing a campaign, which, in the opinion of most people, only tends to defer the attainment of their wishes, the nonmilitant section has organized and is carrying on a constitutional political program of peculiar annoyance and embarrassment to the government.

Aid Labor Party

The National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, whose executive committee embraces a large number of influential persons, including Mrs. Henry Fawcett, Lady Francis Balfour, the Countess of Aberdeen, Lady Brassey, Lord Courtney and Lord Lytton, has issued a report showing that it is spending funds at bye elections in support of labor party candidates and against the official Liberal candidate.

The policy of the national union is to do its utmost to overthrow the Asquith government, the entire blame for the defeat of the woman suffrage bills being placed upon the premier and his supporters. The labor party, which is the only party supporting the women's cause, this policy will strengthen the labor party in promoting three-cornered contests and to avoid such triangular candidates at the next election is believed to be the government's only chance of a return to power.

Court Undisturbed

LONDON, June 5.—Tonight's court in Buckingham palace, the last of the season, was not disturbed by any suffragette demonstration. Stricter precautions were taken than on Thursday evening to scrutinize guests and their admission cards.

There was no indication, however, that the militant suffragettes made any serious attempts to procure admission to the court by improper means. They were satisfied for the moment with the big advertisement they secured last night by Miss Mary Blomfield prostrating herself before the king and queen and pleading that before they were against women. The belief the action of Miss Blomfield will stimulate greatly the inflow of donations to the suffragette cause.

Queen Mary on Incident

LONDON, June 5.—(Saturday).—According to the Daily Express Queen Mary remarked after the Blomfield incident: "If this had been the worst thing the women had done they might perhaps be forgiven."

It is reported that their majesties have decided to hold no garden party at Buckingham palace this year, as this function, to which thousands of invitations are issued, would give too great an opportunity to the suffragettes for scenes. It is also stated that the invitation list to last night's court (Continued on Page Two.)

Ledyard Finishes Testimony Before Interstate Commerce Commission

WASHINGTON, June 5.—There were indications at the conclusion of today's session of the inquiry into the affairs of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad by the interstate commerce commission that the investigation would be completed next week.

Walker D. Hines, an attorney of the New Haven, at the afternoon hearing placed several present officials of the road on the stand and before adjournment was taken Commissioner McChord announced that he wanted to conclude this phase of the case tomorrow. Mr. Hines said the only witness he wanted heard was L. S. Miller, president of the New York, Westchester & Boston railway.

Lewis Cass Ledyard, concluding the statement he began yesterday, and he did not consider the directors of the New Haven were "dummies" and that he had often opposed J. Pierpont Morgan at meetings. He had several clashes with Chief Counsel Folk and insisted on answering questions in his own way.

Mr. Ledyard denied knowledge of troubles which arose from the acquisition and consolidation of the franchisees of the New York, Westchester & Boston railway.

THREE TRUST BILLS PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Opposition Melts Away at the Last Moment and Measures Carry

VOTE COMES UNEXPECTEDLY

Early Adjournment Now Up to Senate, to Which Bills Are Sent

WASHINGTON, June 5.—All three bills on the administration trust program passed the house late today and were sent to the senate for action.

Opposition melted away when the final vote came and the voting was through quickly. The Covington hat-trick state trade commission bill was passed without a record vote; the Clayton omnibus antitrust measure received 278 votes to 54 against it, and the vote on the Rayburn railroad capitalization bill was 325 to 12.

The clerk hardly had finished the last roll call before the house had settled down to consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill, one of several supply measures that must be disposed of before the session ends. The adjournment problem now is squarely up to the senate, and the Democratic leaders on that side of the capital are expected to agree upon a program in the near future.

Action Unexpected

Action on the trust bills in the house came unexpectedly. The three measures had been agreed to in committee of the whole after weeks of speech-making, the consideration of the Rayburn bill as amended by the committee being completed late this afternoon. When the trade commission bill came before the house for a final vote, Progressive Leader Murdock moved that it be sent back to the interstate commerce committee with instructions to report the Murdock bill as a substitute. This was rejected 151 to 10, and the pending bill was passed without a rollcall. Then the votes on the other two measures were taken in rapid succession.

Representative White of Ohio was the only Democrat to vote against the Clayton bill, and all the Progressives voted for it, except Representative Chandler of New York. Forty-three Republicans and 15 Progressives joined the majority in supporting the measure.

How They Voted

They were:
Republicans—Anderson, Barton, Burke (South Dakota), Campbell, Cary, Cranton, Curry, Davis, Dillon, Fair, Fear, French, Gardner, Good, Green (Iowa), Haugen, Hawley, Helgeson, Johnson (Washington), Kelley (Michigan), Kennedy (Gowa), Kent, Kitchin (Nebraska), La Follette, Lehmert, McKenzie, McLaughlin, Mapes, Mondell, Morgan (Oklahoma), Moss (West Virginia), Porter, Roberts (Nevada), Scott, Sinnott, Sloan, Smith (Idaho), T. M. C. Smith (Michigan), Stafford, Sutphen, Towner, Vard and Woods.

Progressives—Boll, (California), Bryan, Copley, Falconer, Hinchbaugh, Holmes (Kentucky), (Pennsylvania), Landberg, MacDonald, Murdock, J. I. Nolan (California), Ripley, Temple, Thomas (Illinois), Walters, Woodward—(Illinois). The eight Republicans and four Democrats who voted against the Rayburn bill were:
Democrats—Bartlett, Bucher—(Texas), Garner and Witherspoon—(Texas).

GREAT BRITAIN MAY DEMAND REPARATION FOR BENTON'S DEATH

LONDON, June 5.—(Saturday).—The Daily Express asserts that Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, has notified President Wilson in friendly but unequivocal terms that if General Villa should become president of Mexico, the British government would demand and exact satisfaction for the murder of William S. Benton, who was killed last February by the Constitutionalists.

The Daily Express adds that this communication "decorated with all the frills and embroidery of diplomatic usage and couched in language emphasizing Great Britain's good will toward the United States" places President Wilson in an awkward position.

An editorial in the Daily Express on the same subject says: "Any satisfaction and acknowledgment that the government at last has put its foot down. It demands any attempt to subvert the Monroe doctrine is being made and says it would be impossible to exaggerate the fraternal sentiment of Great Britain for the United States."

The editorial declares, however, that the whole nation will approve Sir Edward Grey's straightforward declaration that if the United States fails to exact reparation Great Britain will exact it.

TAMPICO STILL IS OPEN PORT, SAYS THE U.S.

displayed great interest in the situation arising from the shipment of war munitions to Mexican ports, and were watching for news of a formal declaration of a blockade by the Huerta government.

Should Huerta decide to attempt to stop the delivery of ammunition aboard the Cuban ship Antilla, international law requires that notice of such a blockade be given all foreign powers through proclamation specifying the port to be blockaded and defining with geographical exactness the section of coast to be included within the scope of such a blockade. International law also stipulates that a blockade to be recognized by foreign powers must be effective.

In diplomatic circles the belief is general that a decision on the part of the United States to prevent a blockade would menace success of mediation. It was suggested that, inasmuch as the American government had made no effort to interfere with the "Constitutionalist" campaign against the Mexican federalists at Tampico or other belligerents in its effort to strike at delivery of munitions of war to its enemy, would constitute a grave violation of neutrality.

Garrison Gathering Data.

Fines imposed by General Funston upon the German steamers Ypiranga and Bavaria were considered today by Secretary of War Garrison, who is gathering all facts connected with the landing of war material for Huerta at Puerto Mexico, in preparation for consideration of a claim for remission of the penalties made by the Hamburg-American Steamship company.

Carl Buenz, general agent of the Hamburg-American company, made a statement to the secretary in justification of the action of the captains of the German ships. Mr. Buenz declared that the German ships had sailed from Germany with cargoes of ammunition before the American occupation of Vera Cruz, and without any intent of violating port laws. At Vera Cruz, without landing her cargo of arms, the Ypiranga was chartered by the German government to convey refugees from southern Mexico to a place of safety. It was only after the expiration of this charter that the Ypiranga's captain undertook to carry out his original orders to deliver his arms and ammunition to the representative of the Huerta government.

Changed Destination.

While in Vera Cruz, Mr. Buenz maintained the ship captain received instructions from port authorities changing the destination of the cargo to Puerto Mexico. This appears to have been done under the terms of a proclamation issued by General Huerta authorizing cargoes destined for ports closed as a consequence of the revolution to be landed elsewhere. The German ship captain said that they had ample authority from the proper officials in Mexico to land their goods at Puerto Mexico.

Secretary Garrison told Mr. Buenz that he would consider his representations and addressed a letter to Secretary Bryan asking whether it was his wish to have the question thus raised answered by the state department, and if not, stating that the war department would deal with it.

To prepare for the latter contingency, Secretary Garrison called to General Funston at Vera Cruz for all the recorded evidence bearing upon the facts.

The message relating to mediation from General Funston, who is now aboard a train bound for Saltillo, in answer to the note of the mediators, it was expected, would not be received probably before Monday.

Department Denies Reports.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Reports circulated here today that Rear Admiral Badger, under orders from Washington, had seized the customs house at Tampico, raised the navy department to issue the following official bulletin:

"In reference to the utterly unfounded report, the department desires to deny that any orders have been issued to take the port of Tampico or any other port, nor is any such movement in contemplation."

Jackies Have Malaria.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The American dispatch boat Dolphin, which has been on duty so long in the misnamed Panuco river in front of Tampico that several of her officers and crew are suffering from malarial attacks, was ordered today to Vera Cruz.

THREE TRUST BILLS PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Dunn, Fairchild, Gillett, Moore, Parker, Payne and Wallin—1.

What Bill Provides.

Close regulations and control of the stocks and bonds of railroads by the interstate commerce commission was proposed in a substitute for the Rayburn bill prepared by the house interstate and foreign commerce commission. The committee divided the Rayburn measure into two sections, in order that one might stand if the constitutionality of the other failed in the courts.

The bill makes it unlawful for any common carrier to issue stocks, bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness without the approval of the commission.

The bill broadens the powers of the commission to require information from railroads and all other common carriers and prescribes an elaborate system of reports. The commission would be authorized to require reports on the financial condition of railroads, balanced statements of receipts and expenditures in relations to capital accounts and all other financial transactions.

Stock Certification.

Before issuing stocks or bonds, the bill would require railroads to file with the commission a certificate of notification, showing the character of the securities, the purpose for which they are to be issued, and the disposition to be made of them. Such certificates of the bill makes public record and open to inspection. The bill would give the commission wide authority for the examination of the books of railroads and would provide penalties for the concealing of information.

Giving the commission authority to supervise issues of securities, the bill said:

"It shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the act to regulate commerce, to issue any capital stock or certificate of indebtedness or to assume any obligation as to lessor, guarantor or surety for the securities of any person, natural or artificial, except as though permitted by the authority creating the carrier corporation, except for some purpose within its corporate powers necessary to the proper performance of its service for the public and not tending to impair the financial ability of the carrier to discharge its duty to the public."

Note Issue Exemption.

"It shall likewise be unlawful to issue any such stocks or bonds for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned, or for any other purpose, unless and until upon application and after investigation in the premises by the interstate commerce commission of the purposes and use of the issue and the proceeds thereof, such issue is approved by said commission as necessary and appropriate for the purpose stated. Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to imply any guaranty or obligation as to such issues on the part of the United States."

The bill exempts from this provision notes maturing not more than two years after their issue, when they do not aggregate more than five per cent of the outstanding obligations of the issuing road.

The measure provides that the commission in investigating proposed stock issues shall hear the authorities of the state through which the railroad destined to issue securities passes.

The bill carries a prohibition of five years after the bill becomes law, against one director acting in more than one railroad under the jurisdiction of the commission, without the commission's approval.

It also would make it unlawful for any director or officer of a railroad to profit by the sale or disposition of stocks or bonds.

The Covington Bill.

The Covington trades commission bill would create a commission with broad inquisitorial powers over corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

The bill provides for the appointment of three commissioners, no more than

"You never represented Mr. Mellon in the Grand Trunk matter?" Mr. Polk asked.

"No."

"Did you go to see Mr. Wickersham in the Grand Trunk matter?"

"No, I went to see Mr. Taft."

"Do you of your own knowledge know whether the money gained by Mr.illard was retained by him or passed through him to others?" Commissioner Daniels asked.

Mr. Ledyard reiterated his denial of any knowledge on this point.

Miller's Part in Deal.

At the conclusion of Mr. Ledyard's testimony, Hoffman Miller asked permission to introduce a statement from his father, George McCulloch Miller, regarding his right in the Westchester affair.

Francis H. McAdams created a ripple of excitement by his testimony as to the tax returns of John L. Billard at Meriden, Conn. In 1907, he said, Mr. Billard returned $34,100 worth of realty and a $50 plane. For subsequent years, the list remained unchanged excepting the addition of a $50 horse and a $25 carriage. No stocks or bonds were returned. Mr. Billard's attorney suggested that under the Connecticut laws it is not necessary to report securities which are taxable in some states.

T. De Witt Chrysler, who became a director of the New Haven in October, 1910, was put on the stand by Walter D. Hines, an attorney for the New Haven, to make statement on behalf of the New Haven road. He was not sworn.

Defends Executive Board.

Mr. Chrysler expressed the opinion that the New Haven board was and is an effective and well organized body as one would wish to serve on. He said he knew nothing of efforts to affect legislation and they were never mentioned in board meetings.

Julian M. Tomlinson, auditor of the New Haven, questioned by Mr. Hines, said the New Haven, on June 20, 1909, showed a profit and loss surplus of $12,812,562. In June 30, 1912, he said the profit and loss surplus was $12,775,421.

"So instead of the New Haven running behind $30,000,000, during that time," he was asked, "it really ran behind only about $1,300,000?"

"That is correct."

"What was done in the matter of depreciation of equipment prior to 1907?"

"Large amounts were charged to profit and loss."

In the two years, 1904 and 1905, Mr. Tomlinson said, this amounted to more than $1,000,000. From 1907 to 1912, both inclusive, he said, more than $3,000,000 was charged to the depreciation account.

PUEBLO WOMAN IS ARRESTED IN ARIZ. FOR KIDNAPING SON

PUEBLO, June 5.—Late this afternoon Pueblo police received word that Mrs. M. J. McGrath and the boy George Ziller, kidnapped here yesterday, had been apprehended by officials at Ashfork, Ariz., and taken to the jail at Prescott, where they are being held for the authorities here.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 5.—Following the sensational descent on a public school by two women in an automobile and the alleged kidnaping of George L. Ziller, 10-year-old son of G. W. Ziller, late yesterday, the police today have asked the authorities at Needles, Cal., to apprehend Mrs. M. J. McGrath, divorced wife of Ziller and the boy's mother, whom the latter accuses of abducting the boy.

Detectives here say that Mrs. Roy Palmer, aged 30, confessed to them today that she had a share in the kidnaping and that it was she who lured the Ziller boy away from his companions to the automobile in which his mother was waiting.

Mrs. Palmer is reported to have said that Mrs. McGrath came to her several days ago asking her aid in recovering her son.

The Palmer woman said she acted without any intention of doing wrong, but felt impelled to help the mother, whose plan was breaking because of the separation from her child.

Had Message From Dead Daughter; Gets Woman's Money and Is Arrested

WESTMINSTER, Md., June 5.—Charles W. Eyles, 43, from Mary E. Eyles of Long Beach, Cal., 561 Alexander is under arrest at a hotel here. An attachment has been issued against the bank account of Alexander and his wife by Robert H. Keyes, who is said to have accompanied Alexander here from Nebraska. Alexander is said to have obtained a large sum of money from Keyes, ostensibly for investment.

Mrs. Eyles told federal officers that she was induced by Thomas McCullough, with whom Alexander is said to have been associated, to mortgage her property and turn the money over to him. At the time, she said, he posed as a medium who had received a message from her dead daughter directing her to give McCullough $25,000.

After a trip to Chicago with Mrs. Eyles, he disappeared. Alexander, according to Mrs. Eyles, posed as a government officer. She alleged that she paid him $500 to search for McCullough, and that later she had turned over $25,000 to him.

Public Interest in Disaster Somewhat Died Down After Excitement

MONTREAL, June 5.—Further developments in the rescue of the Empress of Ireland disaster, sinking within the last 24 hours, has settled down to await the official investigation that is to be begun on June 16.

It is believed by many here that the Empress may be raised, though the Canadian Pacific railway officials have been careful not to make statements tending to confirm this belief. It is thought divers may be employed to extricate the imprisoned bodies and the ship blown up after the conclusion in it has been brought out.

Memorial services for Empress of Ireland victims who belonged to Montreal churches will be held Sunday night.

Arrangements are being made by the Montreal board of trade to open a general fund for the relief of the survivors and sufferers from the disaster.

MISSION OF U. S. ONE OF SERVICE, SAYS PRESIDENT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 5.—President Wilson today told 154 graduates of the naval academy, many of whom leave shortly for Mexican waters, that the mission of the United States is one of service to humanity, not of aggrandizement or conquest. He spoke at the annual academy graduation exercises and later delivered the diploma to the young midshipmen. He declared the duty of the United States is to serve the world.

Speaking of the Vera Cruz situation, the president reverently declared: "I pray God the boys there will not have to fight any more."

He added that the real good they will do will be their impression on the Mexicans.

"There are not strutting and blustering," he went on. "The people of Vera Cruz, who despised and hated Americans, will think differently of them when our boys leave."

Enthusiastically Received.

The president spoke in a huge armory, packed with more than 5,000 officers, midshipmen and relatives and friends of the graduates. He was enthusiastically cheered during his address.

President Wilson left Annapolis at 2:30 p. m. on board the Mayflower for Washington, expecting to arrive there at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. He took lunch with Captain Fullam and later inspected the naval academy. As the Mayflower steamed out of the Severn a presidential salute was fired from shore.

President Wilson said in part: "It ought to be one of your thoughts all the time that you are simple Americans, not merely simple, but simple, not merely simple soldiers, but simple Americans, and that you have the point of view of America with regard to her duty and her duty that she is using them as the instrument of civilization, not as the instrument of aggression. The idea of America is to serve humanity, and every time you leave the States and every time you go to the States, realize that that is itself a message, that you are on an errand which other navies have sometimes forgotten, not an errand of conquest but an errand of service."

"What do you think is the lasting impression that those boys down at Vera Cruz are going to leave? They have had to use some force. I pray God it may not be necessary for them to use any more, but do you think the way they fought is going to be the most lasting impression? Have men not fought ever since the world began? Is there anything new in using force? The new things in the world are the things that are divorced from force. The things that show the moral compulsion of the human conscience, those are the things by which we have been building up civilization, not by force, and the lasting impression that those boys are to leave, will be that they exercised self-control."

"You must bear in mind that you are the champions of what is right and fair all around for the public welfare no matter where you are and that you are ready to fight, not merely on the drop of a hat or upon some slight punctilio, but that you are champions of your fellow men."

The president praised Admiral Fletcher, saying he had been on duty longer at Vera Cruz than the other commander, and that he had the qualities of a statesman.

After the ceremony the president watched the graduates go to their quarters, and the former Plebeas run to take possession of "Lovers' lane." He ate luncheon with Captain Fullam and planned to leave for Washington at 3 o'clock.

HUERTATALKS WITH GENERAL VILLA DAILY

Latter Tells President What He Thinks of Him by Telegraph Messages

VERA CRUZ, June 5.—President Huerta is now in daily communication with Gen. Francisco Villa, according to a report brought here by a refugee, but the character of their communication is somewhat unconventional.

General Villa, according to the report, recently sent one of his telegraphers within the federal lines. He tapped a wire and sent to Huerta a message in which Villa called his enemy unpleasant names and urged him not to hasten his departure from the capital, as Villa was very anxious to see him before he left. Villa requested Huerta to wait, saying he soon would be in the capital.

President Huerta, according to the story, appreciating the grim humor of the situation, gave orders that any similar messages should not be withheld, but delivered to him immediately. Since this order was issued, Villa, according to the refugees, has not disappeared Huerta one day.

Has Become a Joke

Though the wording of his messages are always different, each message is said to be more vituperative than the other. The daily receipt of these messages is said to have become something of a joke to the national palace.

The refugee who related this story said that Huerta's hand had been strengthened by the receipt of ammunition from the Ypfanga and Bavaria, and that he now laughs at the idea of resigning. The refugee declared the president was far from being a bankrupt, saying that in one bank alone he had 12,000,000 pesos. The refugee said the members of Huerta's family were still in Mexico.

Victor Huerta, one of the president's sons, it was said, feared the advent of the Americans and their vengeance for his leadership of the mob that dragged the statue of George Washington from its base during the recent disturbances in the capital.

MEDIATORS TAKE A HOLIDAY WHILE WAITING ON REBELS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 5.—Still without any intimation of what General Carranza's answer will be on the question of Constitutional representation here, the mediators and the American and Mexican delegates spent the day working out details of the general peace plan.

There were no conferences, but the American delegates remained in their apartments on the American side studying all the various phases. They are familiarizing themselves with much data which Washington is sending on to them about individuals mentioned for the new provisional government.

Huerta Optimistic

MEXICO CITY, June 5.—Persons who spoke to President Huerta today say he is very optimistic over the outcome of the peace negotiations at Niagara Falls. The belief was expressed that the end of the difficulty was near and that there soon would be a resumption of diplomatic relations with the United States.

It was persistently rumored in political circles that Gen. Jose Refugio Yela, would be appointed minister of foreign affairs and that the other vacancies in the cabinet would be filled tonight.

The storm followed a day of intense heat and came up suddenly. It moved in a westerly direction, cutting a swath several hundred yards wide.

NEILLSVILLE, Wis., June 5.—Fear of a repetition of the Black River Falls disaster of three years ago has alarmed residents of towns along the Black River which tonight is a raging torrent. Reports of today's damage show that several bridges have been washed away, small buildings razed and dams destroyed. At Black River Falls, the river has risen 20 feet since morning, according to reports.

Heaviest damage has been caused at Greenwood, 30 miles north of here, where the municipal light and power company's dam was swept from its foundation and small building wrecked.

MORE WATER WAS WASTED IN MAY THAN CITY USED

Water Department Releases 70,000,000 Gallons Daily to Ease Strain on Mountain Reservoirs

More water was wasted during the month of May than was used by the entire city, according to estimates furnished the city council yesterday by Water Superintendent D. R. McKesson. Mayor McKesson, head of the water department, states that at least 70,000,000 gallons were spilled out of the reservoirs each day of the month. Exceptionally heavy rains and melting snows caused the waste of water. The reservoirs of the city's mountain system filled so rapidly that the water department officials for some days feared trouble. After the first few days of rainy weather the lakes were filled almost to capacity and all water that drained in to them afterward was turned in to streams and wasted.

Mayor McKesson is working on a plan to store at least part of the surplus water hereafter. It is planned to raise the core of the dam at reservoir No. 4 six feet, increasing the capacity of the lake 20,000,000 gallons. The work can be done comparatively cheap, materials being on hand. The cost is roughly estimated at about $7,000. According to the report of Superintendent McKesson for May, the storage increased 420,000,000 gallons. Streams have been making an average of 25,000,000 gallons daily while the city used only 4,220,742 gallons a day. In other words, the water shed has been furnishing almost 15 times as much water per day as the city has been using. At the present time the city has in storage a total of 2,398,000,000 gallons. Of this, Prospect Lake has 450,000,000 and the remainder is stored as follows:

Reservoir	Gallons
No. 1	62,000,000
No. 2	316,000,000
No. 3	150,000,000
No. 4	637,000,000
No. 5	610,000,000
Lake Moraine	235,000,000

Water conditions are rapidly improving, according to the report. In some sections of the city the water has been slightly muddy during the last few days, but this will be remedied within a short time.

REBELS LEVY LOAN ON THE SPANIARDS

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, MAZATLAN, Mex., June 4.—By wireless to San Diego, Cal., June 5.—A loan of 1,000,000 pesos has been levied by the Constitutionalists in possession of the city of Tepic upon Spanish residents, according to information that was received at Mazatlan today. It was said that all Spaniards had been notified to leave Tepic by June 6.

Desertions from the federal forces defending Mazatlan continue. F. Unger, representing the United Sugar company, has arranged with General Iturbe, commanding the Constitutional forces, to permit the return of the cargo of sugar taken from the schooner Garibai, which fell into the hands of the Constitutionalists when she went ashore on Piedras Island in the harbor last Sunday.

Details of the arrangement effected by Unger have not been given out.

ULSTER VOLUNTEERS GET SUPPLY OF ARMS

BELFAST, June 5.—The army of the Ulster Volunteers was strengthened today by the addition of 3,000 mousers after the result of a daring gun running feat of an Irish yachtman.

A portion of the consignment was landed to the south of Donaghadee, 16 miles from Belfast, but most of the rifles were delivered straight on the quays at Belfast and the cases were removed under the eyes of the police by specially selected volunteers.

REDMOND TURNS DOWN PLEA OF SUFFRAGETTES

LONDON, June 4.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, today declined a request by Irish suffragettes that he receive a deputation to discuss the inclusion of women as electors for the Irish parliament. Mr. Redmond pointed out that previous denials of this nature had caused only unpleasantness and reiterated the view that Ireland under home rule must decide whether she wants women voters.

BRILLIANT LIGHTS INJURE PEOPLE

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—Too brilliantly lighted cities tend to produce a drowsy, inattentive condition in pedestrians and drivers, according to statements made in a report by the committee on street lighting at the convention of the National Electric Light Association.

Prof. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard asserted that a uniform illumination would be unfavorable. "It would produce a hypnotic state," he said. "Our attention is naturally fluctuating and will best be kept awake if the illumination produces an alternation between tension and relaxation. This demands that there be darker regions between the lighted."

"SHORTY'S TRIP TO MEXICO"

The offer of Pedro Sanchez, the border smuggler, was seized upon by Shorty as a means of repairing a damaged heart. If he were to help Pedro smuggle arms into Mexico, he might manage to renew his affair with Anita. He had just come through a sickening experience. It was pay day and he had come up to town with the boys for a good time. The only woman in Dead Tree whom Shorty would look at being Bessie Gordon, the dentist's wife, he had gone to the doctor's office roaring with toothache. And Gordon had insisted upon relieving him of a perfectly good molar. Afterward, the boys had treated him to the consolations of whisky—and Pedro's winning his cooperation. Shorty and the Spaniard rode off toward the border.

Meanwhile Anita and her father had refused to hand over their stock of horses to the Mexican general, Xaramba, who had thrust them up in their own hacienda, placed a guard over them, and ridden away. On a mission for Pedro, Shorty stopped off to see his sweetheart. There he discovered their plight, and outwitting the guard, cut their bonds, hurried father and daughter into his automobile and drove to safety across the border.

The picture will be shown at the Empress today.

Agout for Broad Jumpers, Is Verdict at France Meeting

LYONS, France, June 5.—A decision of considerable importance to American athletics was reached today by the International Amateur Athletic federation committee on rules, regulations and records. By a vote of 5 to 4 the committee rejected the American contention that there should be no disjunct at the takeoff in the broad jump.

During the discussion James E. Sullivan, president of the committee, pointed out that the American method was a guarantee against injury to the athlete and had produced the world's finest jumpers. The foreign delegates, however, while admitting the facts, declared the disjunct to be essential and were disinclined to change the methods to which they were accustomed.

A few other differences of opinion occurred at the meeting, but the committee brought its work on rules to a conclusion by passing all the athletic rules suggested by Mr. Sullivan with a few alterations.

For instance, in the rule on uprights it was decided that they shall not be moved at all. In the rule on throwing events and the pole jump the rule was made to read that if the implement breaks it shall be counted null. As to the marathon rule, no attendants or coaches are to be allowed during the race, while on account of differences in the various grounds, steepchase specifications are omitted from the rule and are to be decided upon by the committee before each competition.

The next task of the committee is to fix the specifications of a standard inspecting models shipped to Lyons also to investigate and draw up a list for examination by the congress and of world's records to be recognized by the international federation.

GIRL DEFEATS BOY RUNNERS IN COLUMBIA CONTESTS

Ben Murdock Wins Most Points in Unique Button Contest—Scores Took Part in Athletic Events

Miss Serena McIntosh, sophomore, a new figure sprang into prominence in the realm of athletics in Colorado Springs yesterday, when this little girl easily defeated all of the boys of the Columbia school in the 50-yard dash (11.1), the time being seven seconds. In a special matched race, little Miss McIntosh ran a dead heat with Austin Fullerton in 7.5 seconds.

Seventy-eight boys and 16 girls contested in the third annual "button" contest, and in addition to the sport program there was special folk dancing by 35 girls.

The day's program was separated into two divisions, senior and junior. Ben Murdock was high man of the day and of the seniors, with 115 points. He was awarded a gold button. Nelson Hunt was second, with 114.5, and gets a silver one. Buttons were awarded to the following boys: Paul Crowder, Leo Byrnes, Schuber Dillingham, Isaac Parr, Walter Smith, Claude Williams, Merle Brumbach and Chauncey Brown. In the girls of the senior division, Ethel Beely won a gold button and insignia were presented to Gertrude Bigler, Esther Brumbach and Bertha Personette.

In the junior division the buttons were awarded as follows: George Mason, first, with 88.5 points, silver button; Austin Fullerton, second, with 87.5 points; Donald Hunt, Carroll McEnany, Francis Sheehan, George Bates, Cecil McIntosh, Kenneth Day and Herbert Moore.

Buttons were awarded to the following junior girls: Marie White, silver button, 99.5 points; Ethel C. Draper, 43.5 points; Fern Bradburn, Maud Egan, Mildred Cowen, Josephine Gandy and Verna Austin.

The "buttoning" of Carroll McEnany was one of the day's features. This lad lifted himself to the bar 16 times. Ben Murdock won the high jump with five feet, a remarkable leap for a lad of his size.

The events were staged on the school grounds and were in charge of J. W. Erps, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Leach, principal of the school, and it was due to their efforts that it proved such a successful venture.

COLORADO DELEGATION FEARED AT CHICAGO MEET TODAY; CLINE EXPECTED TO WIN 440

MACK DAVIS, TIGER REPRESENTATIVE, AT CHICAGO MEET TODAY.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Illinois today qualified three men for the quarter-mile run in the conference meet here tomorrow and remained favorite tonight on that account despite the barring of W. A. Goeltz, one of its star relay men.

Led by Sanders, the Illinois quarter-milers seem sure of at least two places, and the disqualification of Campbell, Leland, Stanford's middle-distance man, who was found to have competed for the Olympic Athletic Club of San Francisco, in a Pittsburgh meet some years ago, helped the chances of the Orange and Blue.

Preliminary tests today were held only in the quarter. Eight men qualified in two heats, but the competition was not strong and the fast time expected was not made, the qualifiers "pulling up" when their places were assured.

Goeltz was disqualified because Coach Gill had neglected to list him among the Illinois entries, but it was said he would be run under protest. Colorado's quarter generally is expected to have the best chance in the race should the Illinois hopes fail.

A fast track and a firm turf are ready for the meet.

Next to Illinois, experts at the eleven-hour favor Chicago, the Margens having displaced Wisconsin through their recent good showings. The Cardinals' chances were helped, however, by the announcement that Notre Dame would not have as strong a squad in the weight events as expected.

Summary:

First preliminary heat, 440-yard dash—Cline, Colorado; Sanders, Illinois; Stegeman, Chicago; Williams, Wisconsin. Time, 51 seconds.

Second preliminary heat, 440-yard dash—Est, Purdue; Henderson, Illinois; Chase, Stanford; Hart, Illinois. Time, 51.2 seconds.

'DEFIANCE' TO SLIDE INTO WATER TODAY

American Yacht Situation Is Becoming Exciting Word From Lipton

LARCHMONT, N. Y., June 5.—Finishing touches on the remodeled spars on the cup defense candidate, Defiance, owned by the Tri-City syndicate, were completed today and George M. Pynchon, managing owner, announced that the yacht would be launched tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Pynchon expects to give the Defiance her first trial under reduced rig on Sunday.

"I can assure you," he said, "that we will take time from the Vanitie, Alexander S. Cochran's yacht."

The cup candidate yacht, Vanitie, spent the greater portion of the day anchored at City Island harbor, tramping up for the race to be held tomorrow off Larchmont.

LONDON, June 5.—In response to an invitation for his opinion of the Shamrock IV on her showing in Thursday's sail-stretching trip, Sir Thomas Lipton said tonight:

"The Shamrock IV came up to my fullest expectations during her trial yesterday. She will do still better and I have every confidence in her success. The four leaves will do the trick."

BROOKLYN, June 5.—The Brooklyn Federals could not hit Krapp, the former Cleveland American pitcher, effectively today, and Buffalo won 4 to 2, by solving Tom Seaton's delivery in the pinches. BRITISH POLOISTS SHOW SURPRISING SPEED IN FIRST MEADOWBROOK PRACTICE

Foreign Quartet of Equestrian Croquet Players Will Give American Team a Hard Fight

HEMSTEAD, N. Y., June 5.—Surprised were in store for polo enthusiasts who witnessed the English challenge play today, the Buffalo and the second game in this country against a mixed team supposed to be the best of the second riders.

Capt. Vivian Lockett today was put in as back in place of John Trail, and in its new makeup the team apparently was much strengthened. The first of the international matches will be played at Meadowbrook next Tuesday.

The Englishmen won by a total score of 14 goals to 2 goals. The team lined up with Mac, H. A. Tomkinson, Capt. Leslie St. George, Chester McEl, H. Barrett and Capt. Vivian Lockett, playing in the order named. Opposing them were Alexander Brown of the Philadelphia Country Club, Charles Cary Rumsey, Devereux Allburn, who played for one period, and was then replaced by Malcolm Stevenson and H. C. Phipps as back.

Throughout the game the Englishmen were in fine form. Frequently they made brilliant runs and their direction was invariably perfect. The work of the American players was rugged and only occasionally did their play show good team work.

The Chesapeake Motorcyclist Club of Baltimore, Md., is planning a 150-mile time run to be held early in June.

DETROIT, June 5.—Detroit and St. Louis split a double-header today. The first game, a 10-inning contest, was won by the visitors, 6 to 5. The second game was won by Detroit, 3 to 0, and was called at the end of the fifth inning to allow the Browns to catch a train.

Detroit threw the first game away by poor fielding and battery mistakes. Cobb, who has been out of the game for some time with a fractured rib, returned to the game by running the bases in the eighth. He stole third, but a moment later was caught off third and retired.

Detroit's timely hitting won the second game. St. Louis could not hit Main with men on bases.

ZOOZ' OPPONENTS CLASS OF DENVER

After a week's hard practice in an earnest endeavor to improve their fielding, the Zooz tomorrow afternoon will meet the West Colfax team of Denver, one of the fastest semipro organizations in northern Colorado. The West Colfax line has defeated the Elitch and the Knights of Columbus, and have some classy tossers this year. Last season the team gave the Zooz a pretty chase, and it was only after a hard-fought game that the Zooz won, largely through the hurrying of Fusch.

Captain Giesler, the fans' delight has staid during the week, and will put up his old pepper brand of ball Sunday, he has promised. Either Lomax or Akeley will do the twirling for the locals, with Nixon or Vernon behind the padded protector. Schneider, the fast little high school player, has been showing rare form and has accustomed himself to the fast diamond which sends the ground-hit balls like bullets.

DEATH'S TOLL ON THE FOURTH

ONE month from today the Fourth of July will be far enough in the past to begin counting the dead and wounded. There will be funeral corteges winding to cemeteries and muffled-eyed weepings. In the hospitals many little boys will be moaning with bandages over their eyes, and fond parents will wait white-faced for a verdict which either will say that the boys may take their places among the strong or go through life caning chairs. The jaws of other little sufferers will be starting to set in the throes of an awful death known as tetanus, or lockjaw. In six days more they, also, will be dead. Buried away in rubbish heaps or burned by the surgeons will be a large number of putrid bits of flesh which today are perfectly good human hands and fingers.

That is a gruesome summing up, but it is true, and just as needless as it is true. It is not put here merely to make the reader squirm, but to drive home a dreadful fact. Our forefathers began celebrating the Fourth by getting out the Revolutionary cannon and firing it. Quite naturally the firecrackers came into use, and then as the terrible explosives of later years were invented the innocent thrill of an early morning salute turned itself into carnage so fearful that the word was appalled.

Human greed stood grinning back of this thing, as it does of most evils. Men made the insidious engines of death to sell, but happily their business has been much legislated out of existence without the usual protest against disturbing a profitable industry. Foolish parents permitted their children to play with the deadly explosives because they were too weak to refuse their demands. It was a custom and custom is a hard thing to change.

It was in the year 1903 that records on Fourth of July casualties were started, and in the eleven years the grand total of dead and wounded has reached 41,280. High water mark came in 1908, with 163 dead and 5,460 injured. That was worse than a war. In 1910 the National Fire Protection Association was organized for a sane celebration, and nearly every intelligent city has fallen into line with ordinances intended to protect the fools from their own foolishness, as well as the innocent bystander. Gradually the rate fell off until in 1913 only 41 died and 947 were injured in all these United States. Last Fourth the rate jumped again to 32 dead and 1,131 injured.

This showed a letting up of vigilance, which may be checked this year. The appalling folly should end. In this city there are plenty of parks, remote from buildings, where the youngsters can fire their harmless type of crackers, and there are well-guarded public fireworks exhibitions, so that the private ones can be dispensed with in the interest of safety.

It is up to the police to protect the citizens against hideous noises for two or three days and nights in succession. Young men and half grown boys commonly are responsible for these, but it certainly is a cruel invasion of the rights of the ill and nervous who come to this city of refuge for the sick. What is the matter with Colorado Springs being truly sane this Fourth of July?

HIGH SCHOOL SORORITIES BANNED

THE announcement that the National Pan-Hellenic Congress has taken action that will bar members of high school sororities from becoming members of most of the college sororities of high standing is the most helpful thing that has come to public school authorities in stamping out the school fraternal organizations.

There is a place in college life for fraternities, which need not be argued here, and yet, even among college men and women, there is some danger that the true spirit of fraternities may be perverted. At college the students are independent, self-supporting, of supplied with funds. The public schools are a democratic institution, built up and maintained with public funds, and the students are entirely of the bread and butter class. Every feature of public school life should be open to every pupil who may elect to participate in it.

Youth is innately selfish and inconsiderate and high school fraternities tend to increase snobbishness. They ape their betters, and, not appreciating the sincerity of the admiration there is in imitation, the college societies have turned their backs upon the younger organizations.

College men and women are quite able to select their fraternal members without having them dealt out by subordinate institutions in the public schools.

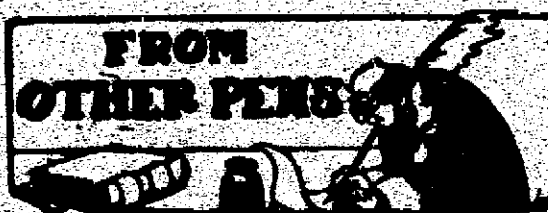

Whether one admires or condemns the activities of "Mother" Jones one is compelled to look in amazement upon her vitality. Thirty-three years past the age which Osler is alleged to have fixed for extermination of the superannuated, this woman is heard of in a few weeks' time at Washington trying to see the President, at New York pounding on the door of John D. Rockefeller's offices, in the Northwest seeking to get into Canada, and now is reported returning to Colorado. The mere car riding in such journeys would take up the energy of almost any 83-year-old person, but Mary Jones accompanies it with passionate addresses, interviews and patrol wagon rides.

The young suffragette who threw herself at the feet of the English sovereigns while they were actually on the dais at a court function was of high birth and entitled to be there. Shall she be known as the "Suffragette Esther?" In the present condition of England she ran almost as much risk of her life as did the queen of Jewish blood when she appeared before Ahasuerus and begged for her people. She has attained social extinction at least. Votes for women are coming in England just as sure as the tides will rise tomorrow on the coasts of the "right little, tight little island." John Bull has sat pretty steady in the boat on this matter, but it is rocking and he has a seasick feeling right now.

Reading the details of the "Tahgo Tea" which the town of Beaumont, Tex., plans for the evening of the Fourth of July, when a city street will be blocked off and bands placed along its length for dancing, one is strongly suspicious that there were some Texans in Colorado Springs taking notes at Shan Kive line last year.

Anticipation is said to bring more pleasure than realization, which certainly must be the philosophy of an old soldier in Pennsylvania who has saved his pension money for twenty years that he might erect a tombstone for himself. His ambition is to outshine every other old soldier in the local cemetery.

Some New York women have been giving an exhibition to show the high cost of beer. Three glasses a day at 5 cents per glass runs the cost to $54.75 in a year. This would provide a month's food for a family, and the women prove it by their exposition of foods and their costs.

IN HONOR OF AN ABSENT STATESMAN

From the New York Sun.
It must be quite well known that the Sun has never hesitated and intends never to hesitate to speak plainly about Colonel Theodore Roosevelt when in our judgment his ideas are pernicious or his acts deserve rebuke. This circumstance makes it all the more a pity and likewise all the more a pleasure to give him full credit for a recent service of the first importance to the country and to the cause of peace in the western hemisphere.

The plan of mediation between the United States and Mexico by the three largest republics of South America may or may not avert war. Whatever the result the experiment will count tremendously for good. The very proposal marks an epoch in the development of the Monroe doctrine.

The one distinct message which Colonel Roosevelt carried to South America was variously expressed by him in his address to the people of Brazil, of the Argentine and of Chile, and it made a profound impression wherever it was delivered. This is the substance:

"As soon as any country of the new world stands on a sufficiently high footing of orderly liberty and achieved justice, of self-respecting strength, it becomes a guarantor of the Monroe doctrine."

"It is to be invoked only in the interests of all our commonwealths of the western hemisphere."

"It should be invoked by all our nations on a footing of complete equality of both rights and obligation."

"It is a doctrine which the United States promulgated, but as rapidly as any other American republic grows to possess the stability, the prosperity, the peace with stability, the self-respecting insistence upon doing right to others and exacting right from others, just as rapidly that country becomes itself a sponsor and guarantor of the Monroe doctrine."

"If it ever becomes vitally necessary to enforce it, each would help the others."

This fine, reasonable and desirable extension of the Monroe doctrine, preached by an ex-president of the United States during his travels in South America, applies of course not only to direct attempts at conquest of territory in the western hemisphere of such powers, but also to the regulation of such troubles in or between the American commonwealths as might afford a reason or a pretext for European intervention.

Who can doubt that the proposal from Brazil, Chile and the Argentine is largely due, if not entirely due, to Secretary Root's journey during the Roosevelt administration and to Colonel Roosevelt's recent presentation to the southern republics of the corollary of joint and equal responsibility?

In Colonel Roosevelt's letter in the current number of the Outlook we find a general expression of his attitude on the subject of peace and war. It is well worth reprinting:

"I very firmly believe in peace. I abhor unjust war and abhor and despise all men who lightly or wantonly do deeds that jeopard peace. I believe that wars can be found, gradually, as nations grow more civilized, more on an equality of good conduct and right living, will permit of the substitution of other methods than those of war for the settlement of international disputes. But in this international body politics, as in every other body natural or artificial, it is foolish to attempt to draw into existence a function before there is an organ through which it can act as an organ. It is a function before there is an organ before the function itself can be exercised."

"The peace of righteousness is a noble ideal, and as yet it can be obtained in the world at large only if the righteous are able to defend their rights. The free and peace loving nations in the present state of the world's progress, can pursue the blessings of peace and righteousness only as long as they are both able and willing, if necessity should demand it, to use their potential strength against wrong-doers."

Honor, we say, to the patriotic and energetic North American who has done so much to spread in South America these sane and admirable doctrines."

UNEMPLOYMENT.

From Harper's Weekly.
One of the most distressing and most terrible of all industrial conditions is the frequent unemployment that prevails in many trades. This distressing hardship is being studied diligently, and no doubt many devices will be found for lessening it, but there is one condition that causes it and that keeps us from too much optimism. There can be no such thing as general overproduction, and, therefore, there can be no general excess of labor supply. There can, however, be temporary overproduction of any given article and here is where the extreme modern specialization in industry makes trouble. A man on a woman who can only do one thing and is thrown out of employment must wait until conditions pick up in that particular industry. To think out a system by which with all our extreme specialization there shall never be even a temporary failure of adjustment between demand and supply is a task with which we must struggle but in which frankly the hopes of complete success seem slight.

COLLEGE DEGREES

BY GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

In a few weeks the 1914 crop of college degrees will be ripe. Indications are that it will be a bumper crop and will be harvested as usual in great solemnity with speeches and academic honors. It takes four years to ripen an ordinary college degree, while the fancy varieties take three years longer. Contrary to the case of other crops, college degrees ripen best in extremely dry localities. Nothing is as hard on a degree as moisture.

"In Germany the irrigation system is extensively practiced."

causes conditions, flunks, expulsions and many other serious diseases. Sometimes a little as a quart of moisture will ruin a degree entirely. However, in Germany the irrigation system is extensively practiced and Muenchener, and Pilsener are used more extensively than Greek and Latin in ripening the crop.

There are many kinds of college degrees, including "A. B.," "A. M.," "B. S.," "D. D.," and "S. P. O. R. T." After the student has harvested his degree he hangs it on the end of his name and lets it trail gracefully behind him through life. A man who has acquired a degree is universally respected because of this fact and is allowed by a grateful nation to cast as his vote in municipal elections as the man who has acquired a damnable nose by irritating himself at the expense of the precinct leader for 15 years.

Some men are not satisfied with one degree but keep on acquiring them until their names look like rifles with alphabetic tails. The second degree is easier to acquire than the first, because the student does not have to play so much football while taking it. As a rule the third degree is given to the anxious young scholar by the business world after he gets out of school and tries to exchange a thorough knowledge of Greek and Latin for three square meals a day.

In the School of Life

BY RUTH CAMERON

In most schools a pupil is marked according to the work he does. A brilliant scholar, no matter if he doesn't put forth his full effort, gets A, while the slow-witted pupil who does his best will only receive a D or even a C.

In a school which I visited the other day, all this is changed. The pupils are marked according to the improvement they make from one end of a term to another, and also according to the effort they put forth.

"You, I should hate to be the teacher who marks under the second system, for it must be extremely difficult to find a single mind to weigh and measure such abstract qualities as effort and improvement. And yet, how splendidly just it is. Don't you think that if there is a living Recorder who marks us pupils in the school of life, he probably uses that system rather than the other?"

"I'm sure I hope so, and I believe so, too."

I'm thinking of two women. One of them married into considerable luxury. Her husband has just bought her a house; she has been renovating and redecorating it and with the lavish use of money she has made a very handsome place out of it.

The other one has a large family of little ones and a small income. She has little time and less money, and yet by the lavish use of taste, effort and self, she is gradually evolving a thoroughly artistic and livable home out of a shabby old house. Now, which is the greater success, the handsome house or the charming little home? For which of these pupils in the school of life do you think the Divine Recorder puts down the better mark?

Of two girls who were at college when I was one came from a fine old family, and an innate social graces shone behind her and an innate social graces. The other was from a very plain, uneducated family. She scarcely knew what manners meant and was extremely shy and diffident. Today, the first is a social success wherever she goes, and yet I do not call her so great a triumph as the second who has overcome her diffidence and shyness and acquired breeding to be easy and at home in any gathering.

She does not stand out like the first girl for her social graces, but her improvement over what she originally was is vastly greater.

Isn't the cards, you know, that matter so much, but the way you play them. There is more satisfaction in playing a poor hand to its full value than in playing a good hand and winning in spite of your stupidity.

In duplicate whist a record is kept of the cards which each player receives and the same hands are dealt over again to varying sets of players. The result is that each player has a fair chance to win, and we could have records of this sort now and then in the game of life. Who knows but some day we shall

The Mexican Situation

MEDIATION A FAILURE?

From the Kansas City Journal.
Above the mighty roar of Niagara come the stirring notes of discord among the A. B. C. mediators. According to some accounts, there is a hopeless deadlock of interests represented there and hope for a final agreement which will settle the Mexican difficulty is growing dim and dimmer with each passing day. The active and war-like forces outside of mediation circles are becoming restive. They were never enthusiastic over the scheme to arbitrate their affairs, and they chafed at the delay among the referees. The board of mediation is in fact a sort of corner's pry sitting on a corpse that protests that it is neither dead nor dying. The Mexican leaders believe that their difficulties can be best settled among themselves and they are resentful of this peaceful, tea-drinking set at Niagara.

Washington alone of all the powers and interests represented has expressed any real confidence in peaceful mediation. Huerta has not officially committed himself to its conclusions, and Carranza is equally temperate. The delay incident to the gathering of the members of the board was no doubt welcomed by Huerta as it gave him time to land cargoes of war munitions that were on the way from Europe and Japan. He is, after all, the craftiest diplomat of the lot. The basic assumption of the mediation scheme was that Huerta would resign, but he has never declared his intention of doing so and probably will not.

Carranza and Villa have gained too great an advantage to drop their arms and permit outside nations to step in and take charge of Mexico's affairs. With their modest aims within sight of the goal they would be strangely imbecile if they gave their consent to any plan of mediation that contemplated denying them the fruits of their long campaign and hard-won victories. All that has been accomplished thus far at Niagara Falls is merely preliminary. No authority exists for believing that any of the Mexican leaders intend to acquiesce in the decision of the mediators. And it is unreasonable to suppose that Mexican internal conditions could be improved in opposition to the wishes of those who wield the military power.

FOG BANKS AT NIAGARA FALLS

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
Speaking of fogs, has anyone ever mentioned a fog bank? There is one that hangs over Niagara Falls where the mediators are in session.

The unrecognized Huerta sends agents to meet our own agents in an official capacity and between them, with the A. B. C. acting as messenger boys, they proceed to formulate a plan of governance.

But meanwhile the armies of Villa and Carranza continue their march upon Mexico City with some idea, we suspect, of taking possession of the city when the mediators come in and what is it all about, anyhow?

MORE ARMS FOR HUERTA

From the New York Tribune.
A secret agent, round Robin, Hood's own Mexican policy of the administration was illustrated afresh when the state department disclaimed yesterday any interest in the landing at Puerto Mexico of the Bavaria and Ypiranga cargoes of arms. Technically there is ground for holding that such a delivery of arms is not a violation of any armistice agreement with Huerta, since whatever armistice agreement exists has never been reduced to writing, possibly never even to words, and each party must judge for himself how correctly it is living up to a merely nebulous understanding. Yet the unbridled discharge of the Ypiranga's arms and ammunition at Puerto Mexico makes an absurdity of a policy which was based on the necessity of selling these same supplies to Carranza and ammunition before they could be unloaded at Vera Cruz. The whole situation at Vera Cruz, and in fact the whole problem of Mexican intervention has hinged on the seizure of Mexico's chief port. Had the Ypiranga not been reported by wireless the navy might still be doing merely blockade service along the Mexican coast.

To prevent Huerta's receiving fresh supplies of arms and ammunition the use of sailors and marines were hired to "certify" the direct purpose of that necessary sacrifice is now forgotten, and the Ypiranga is allowed to discharge her cargo at a nearby port. It was essential a month ago to keep down Huerta's military resources, it is just as essential to keep them down now. The United States should never have consented to an armistice which would permit the unloading of the Ypiranga's cargo at any Mexican port. But under the Wilson-Bryan-Mexican program any old way has been regarded as the straightest way home.

Comments.
From the Philadelphia North American.
Mediation changes to mediation. Headline! And possibly, later, to prayer.

From the Washington Star.
If Huerta will not resign, possibly he will back down to the extent of agreeing to a safe and sane Fourth of July.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
On the basis that it takes a thief to catch a thief, Villa's promised war on Mexico bandits ought to prove an eminently successful affair.

The Town Reviewer, in the New York Telegram.
A new dance popular at army posts is wigwagged thus: One step forward; hesitate; sidestep. It is known as the "Woodrow Wilson Rag." I fear these military men are cynics.

From the Philadelphia Record.
Huerta has received 100,000 cartridges extension of his term of office.

From the Philadelphia North American.
If mediation gets there first, Huerta can beat his machine gun into now shares, and his Cincinnati "return in honest debt in his little term."

MONTECLAIR, N. J., MODEL CITY

Montclair, N. J., for years has enjoyed the reputation of having an exceptionally efficient health department. It is a city of 25,000 inhabitants, of whom about 10 per cent are children of 5 years and under, and it spent just 50 cents in protecting the health of each inhabitant in 1913. Among its 25,000 people are 3,000 negroes and 3,000 Italians.

Some years ago the city began control of its milk supply. The country at large is under obligation to Montclair for its fight for pure milk. Its reports, annual, weekly and daily, its regulations, the scope of every milkman, the farms, the cows, the depot, and the number of bacteria in his milk.

In the 1913 report we read that in that year the Fairville (N. Y.) dairy had with a score of 100. Fairfield Dairy company, stable No. 2, was second, with 87.5. The lowest score was that of Cyrus Crane No. 2, 58. In the average bacteria counts for the year the Borden company certified led with 2,606, first; Borden company, pasture, 11,400; second; George M. Canfield, 16,100; third; and the Purdy dairies, 14,000, last. Any person can go to the department and find out just the standing of his milk dealer.

And now let us see if the babies of Montclair are as healthy as they should be with this good milk supply. The baby death rate of Montclair is 84. That of New York city is 191 and New York takes much better care of its babies than does Boston, Chicago, Memphis or Kansas City.

In 1880 to 1885 the Montclair rate was 136; in 1885 to 1894, 130; 1905 to 1908, 96; 1910 to 1913, 86; 1913, 84. In 1913 one baby died from summer complaint.

The children's bureau, department of labor, advocates intensive studies of baby conditions. Montclair decided to give the plan a trial. Miss Julia L. Elve and a field worker went to Montclair. They addressed a public meeting on the play. The field worker remained a while to get the details going rightly, and then Montclair went on with the work. The investigators were able to get a fairly complete record of the living conditions of 80 per cent of the babies in the town. They made a close, detailed study of the home life of 44 of the babies who died. They found that the great majority of the babies who breast fed for the first few months of life, sixty-five per cent of the Italian babies were breast fed for six months or longer, 46 per cent of the negro babies, and 40 per cent of the white babies not Italian.

And yet the bulk of the deaths were of bottle-fed babies. In spite of the very good milk in Montclair, breast feeding was the safer plan. What shall we say of bottle feeding where the milk has hundreds of thousands of bacteria?

Eighteen mothers worked at a gainful occupation up to the time of delivery. Ten mothers went to work at a gainful occupation within a month after the baby was born. One-third of the deaths occurred among the babies within a few days after birth. Feeding had nothing to do with these deaths. The little ones did not have a show.

The board would remedy this by instructing prospective mothers by helping those who need help and by better maternity service. If Montclair can do as much for its people, how can

REDUCING THE WEIGHT.
M. M. of Keokuk, Ia., writes: "You may be interested to see how your theories work out in practice, and I am lacking a diagram of weight which shows the reduction obtained by simply eating one meal less a day."

"March 5 I weighed, stripped, 220 pounds, which, with my height, 5 feet 10 inches, was far too much. I was short of wind and disinclined to any exertion. I concluded to try your theory out. This was especially practical for me, because I have always had a fine appetite for anything in the way of food, especially sweet things and potatoes."

"I concluded to weigh daily on a link, and to limit myself only in the number of meals. I ate, everything that comes before me—pie, cake, pudding, potatoes, in fact whatever appeals to my taste."

"I take the weights in the morning, stripped, after emptying the bladder and bowels, the latter if possible. The reduction in 10 weeks has been 14 pounds, but at a decreasing rate, as the smooth curve shows in the diagram, which is a general average of the weights."

"I am 61 years old and since adopting my present plan of eating I have felt 100 per cent better in every way."

"I find it far easier to go without one meal than to practice abstinence from food that I like. What I am wondering about is how far I had better go with this weight reduction. I have set a goal at 200 pounds. Is there any danger connected with this weight reduction?"

REPLY.
Accompanying M. M.'s letter was a blue print showing his weights from March to May. One line shows the weekly average. The line connecting the daily weights sometimes drops a pound below and sometimes rises a pound above the average line. M. M. says that losing weight is dependent not so much on what one eats as how much. If one meal is to be dropped it is best to make it the night meal. M. M. should not go below 200, and it will be better to remove the last 10 pounds at the rate of half a pound a week. If he wants to take off another 20 pounds let him stop at 200 and resume the reduction next year. There is no danger in reducing provided it is gradually done. The organs of a fat man have become accustomed to working under the pressure and tension of fat, and this must not be removed too rapidly.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA SYMPTOM.
Reader writes: "What is the first symptom of locomotor ataxia? What does the body do to itself? Is there any way to cure it? Can it be cured by exercising and dieting?"

REPLY.
1 and 2. Generally sharp, shooting pains. These pains intermit. They are frequently in the abdomen. They may be anywhere. There are many exceptions to the above reply. For instance, the disease periodically, a salivarian and mercury given at the beginning may be of considerable service. Later they do no good.

MOYER TRIAL TO BEGIN ON JULY 6

HOUGHTON, Mich., June 5.—The trial of Charles H. Moyer and other leaders of the Western Federation of Miners on charges growing out of the recent copper miners' strike will begin on July 6. The date was selected today after O. N. Hilton, attorney for the union men, had secured Anthony Lucas, prosecuting attorney, that his clients would be ready. The case will be heard at Lansing, seat of Beraga county.

SISTERS MARRY WRONG MEN BY MISTAKE

SAN MATEO, CAL., June 5.—Mrs. John F. Barrett and Mrs. Robert D. Savage, sisters, married at a double wedding in January, returned from their honeymoon trips yesterday and learned that according to the county clerk's records, Mrs. Barrett's legal name was Mrs. Robert D. Savage and Mrs. Savage's legal name was Mrs. John F. Barrett. The marriage licenses were confused at the time of the wedding and technically the two girls, who are the daughters of Supervisor James T. Cases, were married to the wrong men. There is said to be a possibility that the two couples will have to be married over again, but the county clerk has expressed an opinion that the tangle can be straightened out by a transfer of the names on the license.

Pan-Methodism Takes Great Step Forward

Southern Methodist General Conference Votes for Closer Relations With the Northern Church—Found a Court of Appeals Presbyterians Also Strengthen the Denomination For Which Holds Their Many Presbyterians and Vandenberg

BY THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER

When the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Oklahoma City, a few days ago, arose and a plan of union with the American Methodist church, it established a principle of far greater consequence than the vexed question of the church control of Vanderbilt university, which had consumed more time than any other issue.

In a word, it means for the man of the street, that the rival branches of Methodism, promised to quit all strife and unseemly competition and to work together toward the practical unification of their divided denomination.

There are at present 16 branches of the Methodist church separately organized in the United States, each containing a distinct denomination.

This Oklahoma City action, which ratifies and consummates negotiations long under way between the Methodist Episcopal church, North, and the Methodist Episcopal church, South, does not mean that these two great churches will unite overnight. It does mean that they are looking toward eventual consolidation. It frankly recognizes that the tides of the twentieth century all set in that direction. The movement for Christian union has a greater hold upon church members than it has upon ecclesiastical leaders. Before there can be anything approximating the unification of Christianity, however, there must be a consolidation of the denominational groups. There must be a real fraternity of spirit and an honest working together without strife and jealousy.

The Southern Methodists have about two million members, and the Northern Methodists about three and a quarter million members. Their amalgamation would be the greatest church union at present on the horizon.

A Methodist Federal Council. Divided by the causes that made the Civil war, the two denominations have at different times made overtures looking toward closer relations. Only in recent years, however, have they come to any real prospect of a substantial unity. The action at Oklahoma City makes certain a federal council of Methodism. This will be the court of final appeal in all vexed questions. The court is constituted of six bishops, six traveling preachers and six laymen, equally divided between the two denominations. Below this are conference commissions of federation to settle all cases of local irritation and complaint between the two churches.

For largely by the extension of the northern church into the south these two Methodist bodies have been doing rival work. Their conferences and parishes have overlapped. There has been in many instances frank and open competition, and even strife. Some of the instances have been such as would scarcely suggest the brotherly spirit of the gospel to a worldly looking on over the fence.

There is no real difference in the doctrine or polity of the two denominations. Each should be willing to leave the other undisturbed in its field. Both general conferences have repeatedly endorsed the principle that when either church is at work in a community, the other should keep out.

Now this federation council puts teeth into those resolutions. It gives official and binding authority to this court of appeals. No matter how zealous denomination officers may be in wanting to plant great churches in the rich and powerful centers of the other denomination's territory, the federal council of Methodism will veto it.

In this the enlightened sentiment of the church will support them and the non-churchgoing community will heartily approve. It is taking real religion to lead some congregations to give up their claims and to turn over property and membership to the sister church.

A Path of Progress. Already the two greater bodies of Methodism have made substantial progress in coming into their mission work so that on the foreign field they trust each other absolutely and work with each other. But then, reliance on the foreign mission field is several years ahead of religion in the home land.

With the great Methodist churches adopting the plan of federation, with practical methods for meeting the irritating conditions of rival congregations, it is altogether likely that the Presbyterians will follow suit. Both the Northern and Southern Presbyterian general assemblies, and the Synod of the German Reformed church, have given official endorsement to a plan of Presbyterian federation.

There were negotiations afoot for the actual union of the German Reformed and the Northern Presbyterian denominations, but these were rejected by the Reformed church, apparently in the belief the federation plan is better as making for a larger church unity.

After all, as experience in Scotland and America has shown, for two denominations to unite when the local congregations are not in agreement is merely to promote discord and strife. When this federation plan, which is bound to extend to all the denominations of the same family groups, gets the local bodies of the individual congregations to working together in fraternity, then, and only then, to entering into organic union, thus by a union of the parts, the unity of the whole has to come about. This is slower and less dramatic than proposition for a recognition of all Christians, but it certainly is more sensible and effective.

A Great Church Debate

The Oklahoma City general conference was notable for the debate that reached through many sessions upon what course the Southern Methodist church should take with respect to Vanderbilt university. The trustees of the university had accepted, over the veto of the bishops, a million dollars from Mr. Carnegie for a medical school, conditioned upon the non-denominational character of the university. The supreme court sustained the trustees.

Now the Southern Methodist church has always looked upon Vanderbilt university as its own property. Following the supreme court decision there was a parade of the students and certain interferences of the officers which reflected seriously upon the bishops and the denomination. Resentment of this pervaded the Oklahoma City debate. The decision arrived at is that the church will try to recover its rights in the Vanderbilt property through action by the conference which originally controlled the university. The vote was close and the feeling high.

Undoubtedly, it was reflected in the decision to transfer the Methodist publishing house from Nashville, although other reasons were given for this radical action. The great debates showed that the Southern Methodist church is a militant and virile body. The part it has borne in the development of the new south and southwest is a story of heroism yet to be written.

WOMAN FORGIVES WOMAN FOUND WITH HUSBAND

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 5.—That is a beautiful forgiving spirit. It is the spirit all women of America should have," said Municipal Judge Sullivan yesterday to Mrs. Adeline Lytle. Mrs. Lytle had just declined to prosecute a woman she had trapped in her home with her husband here, and had offered to pay the woman's fare back to her home in Oregon.

"I believe there is some good in this woman, judge, and I don't want to prosecute her," said Mrs. Lytle. "I will send her home at my own expense. I still love my husband and I will forgive him."

You are greatly to be commended for your forgiving spirit, Mrs. Lytle," said the judge. "The divorce problem would be solved easily if all women were like you."

DETROIT MAN PAYS ONE CENT TAX

DETROIT, June 5.—A Detroit citizen yesterday paid into the local internal revenue office a federal income tax of one cent. His income for the 10 months was $2,900.51. Of this sum $2,900 was exempt from tax. Nothing less than one dollar is taxed, but where the amount exceeds 50 cents it is counted as one dollar. This man's net income exceeded the turning point by one cent.

He wrote his check for one cent and received the government receipt. A deputy figured that it cost the department about $1.50 to collect the tax.

DR. WINTERS AND WIFE MUST STAND TRIAL

NEW CASTLE, Ind., June 5.—Dr. W. A. Winters, his wife Mrs. Winters, and W. H. Cooper must face trial for conspiracy to commit a felony, according to Judge Edward Jackson of the circuit court, who today set their trial for July 10. Prosecutor Myers was in court and no effort was made to quash the indictment against the three, who are accused of connection with the disappearance of Catherine Winters, nine years old, about a year ago. Dr. and Mrs. Winters and Cooper were arrested May 30 on the conspiracy charge.

The Chicago Motorcycle club will stage a number of national championship events on June 6 at Hawthorne track.
